PROUD TO BE CARLISLE COUNTY OWNED AND OPERATED

Roadwork in River Bottoms Discussed at Fiscal Court Meeting

By Michael Toon
Carlisle Weekly

The Carlisle County Fiscal Court met in regular session on June 5, 2012. The previous meeting's minutes were approved and Carlisle County Ambulance Service Director Wayne Floyd reported on the ambulance service.

For the month of May the Carlisle County Ambulance Service made 124 runs. Included in those runs, 52 were advanced life support runs, 31 were basic life support runs and 41 of the runs were of miscellaneous variety. County residents were assisted 22 times, with two assists to other counties. There were also three air support runs as well.

Floyd next reported that the county will soon be receiving over $150,000 in Medicare and insurance funding from previous ambulance runs. The main obstacle in receiving these funds was the loopholes that had to be navigated in order to electronically bill customers under one clearinghouse. With that situation resolved, billing and tracking of those bills will now be more efficient.

Floyd concluded his report by speaking about two seminars that he and the ambulance service attended. The first of those was a seminar provided by the University of Louisville, which covered the topic of head trauma to underage children. Kentucky leads the nation in head trauma related deaths in ages infant to three years old. The seminar spoke about the signs to look for in relation to parental abuse, and what emergency responders need to look for.

The second seminar involved cardiac care in our region, as the ambulance service visited Lourdes Hospital for the seminar. During the meeting Carlisle County was praised in their recent innovations and improvements in cardiac care with the 12 lead system. Response/treatment time on a heart attack had decreased from 1 hour, 20 minutes to 30 minutes now for treatment, in the process saving numerous lives.

Newly appointed Emergency Management Services Director Carissa Viniard was introduced during her first fiscal court meeting. Viniard had nothing to report, as she was just getting started in her role as the Emergency Management Services Director. Viniard will receive training at the PADD office on Tuesday and will be meeting with the head of the Regional Emergency Management Services to continue her training.

In the Carlisle County Jail's report Ronny Owens reported that there were two inmates in the Hickman County Correctional Facility and three inmates in the Ballard County Detention Center.

In the road report, Carlisle County Road Department Supervisor Jerry Bowman reported that roadwork in the upper river bottoms was underway and work on bridges on County Roads 1016 and 1022 was finally underway as well.

Carlisle County Judge Executive Greg Terry reported that the county received nearly $38,000 in emergency road aid money to complete work on bridges and roads that are in need of repair.

Bowman next told the fiscal court that the fiber optic lines that are being laid across the county have caused complaints amongst citizens. Bowman was instructed that a cleanup crew follows in behind the workers who lay the fiber optic lines, and that after their clean-up crews are done with the work. The road department will be glad to assist citizens with additional work that may be needed.

Bowman also addressed the second round of anti-weed spraying that has been conducted, as area farmers have complained their crops have been adversely affected by the spraying. Bowman will meet with the sprayers and have them look at the affected areas and if there is any fault on the sprayer's part local farmers will be compensated.

Discussion on the concrete bridge at Fish Lake was next discussed. Bowman told the fiscal court that something was going to have to be done because when the rainy part of the year hits there will be major issues in that area. Judge Executive Terry said that farmers in that area that were affected by the sand that resulted from the blowing of the Birds Point Levee in new Madrid needed to file separate class action lawsuits along with the county. Terry spoke of the need of an open meeting to inform farmers in that area of their rights.

The fiscal court next approved the Carlisle County Sheriff's monthly statement, along with the Carlisle County Clerk's monthly statement.

In the 911 report Josh Glover reported that the CMRS audit for the year will be conducted in the upcoming month and that Ditronics has sent out the combiner for the communications tower. This combiner will improve communications at the tower, and hopefully resolve all issues.

Glover next gave the Solid Waste report. In his first report as Solid Waste Director Glover told the fiscal court that a dumpsite on Highway 123 was cleaned up and letters will be sent out to various other offenders in the upcoming weeks. A resolution was next passed to approve the five year solid waste plan. After it was approved the plan will be sent to Frankfort for finalization.

Carlisle County Judge Executive Terry then discussed the wages for the newly structured Judge Executive's Office. Terry proposed that, instead of hiring another person to take the place of Kirsten Carter, the duties that she had will be split amongst County Treasurer Susan Bailey, Josh Glover and Secretary Brandi Webb. With that being said, Terry proposed that each receive a raise for taking on those added duties. The move will result in $14,000 in annual salary saved that would have gone to hiring an additional employee. The fiscal court approved the move.

Under new business the annual budgets for the West Kentucky Allied Services, Carlisle County Conservation District and Carlisle County Health and Mental Health Districts were approved.

An update on the Milburn Gym was provided and the county received funding back from the repair of the windows and heating systems to the gym and with the $12,000 the county has left, along with additional grant funding, the gym will have a new roof.

With there being no further business the June 5, 2012, Carlisle County Fiscal Court meeting adjourned.

County Receives Good News in Search for Missing Carlisle Man

Aldrich had been missing since the evening of May 23rd and was found on June 4th

By Michael Toon
Carlisle Weekly

Anthony (Tony) Aldrich was reported missing on May 24, 2012, after he was last seen on the evening of May 23rd. What next resulted was a ten day long search that included his family, friends and hundreds of Facebook "shares" in the hopes that the spreading of the news would yield Tony Aldrich's return.

Aldrich's family was beginning to fear the worst as temperatures varied from 100 degrees to 49 degrees. On Monday, his family and friends received the good news that they had been hoping to receive, as Aldrich was found in a cornfield three miles southwest of Cunnigham, Kentucky, off of Highway 408.

Aldrich had gone for a walk through the Mayfield Creek Bottoms without telling anyone where he was going. While he was walking along the edge of the creek the creek's bank gave way, and as Aldrich fell he landed at the bottom of the creek, injuring his knee.

Through the next few days Aldrich made his way up the creek, eventually crawling 900 feet through a four foot tall cornfield.

Aldrich made his way through a bean field next, and that was when he saw local farmer, Todd Byassee. Aldrich began to yell frantically to get the attention of Byassee. Byassee called 911 and was assisted by Dan and Korie Bowles. Aldrich was moved to a stable place where the Carlisle County EMS, fire department and local law enforcement responded to the scene, and treated Aldrich for severe dehydration and a broken leg that was broken in two places.

Air Evac was called to the scene and transported Aldrich to Vanderbilt Medical Center where he received two knee surgeries to repair his knee. As of press time the two knee surgeries were successful, and Mr. Aldrich is recovering nicely.

In the evening the fire department nearly sold out of fish and chickens, as the fish fry was a tremendous success. The Milburn Fire Department would like to thank all of those who came out and helped with the events of the day and all of those who came out and supported the fish fry in any way.

The Kingdom Within

“The kingdom of God cometh not with observation: neither shall they say, lo here or lo there! For behold, the kingdom of God is within you.” (Luke 17:20b-21)

In Acts 1:6 the apostles ask Jesus if He would at this time restore the kingdom to Israel. Their understanding of the kingdom was still limited until the day of Pentecost when the Holy Ghost opened their understanding. They were looking for the kingdom to come naturally as it was in the days of King David. So it is today that many people can only comprehend a kingdom if they can see the king. Kingdom means the King’s domain or the king’s dominion. In other words, it is the area that a king rules over including the subjects within that domain.

In Matt. 13: 13:44-46 Jesus explains that the kingdom of heaven is like treasure hid in a field that is so valuable a man would sell all he has to obtain the treasure. Again it is as a man seeking for goodly pearls and having found one pearl of great price, sold all to buy it. Simply put, the kingdom of God is of great value, more valuable than anything else and is to be desired and sought for accordingly.

Col. 1:13 tells us that we, born again believers have been delivered from the power of darkness and translated into the kingdom of God’s dear son Jesus. That puts us in the kingdom of heaven and also puts the kingdom in us. For where the king lives is His domain. “Christ In us, the hope of glory.” (Col. 1:27) “Greater is He that is in us than he that is in the world.”(1 John 4:4) “If any man have not the spirit of Christ, he is none of His.”(Rom. 8:9)

To withhold territory from the king is an act of treason. The king is to have dominion over everything in His kingdom. To be double hearted and forked tongue is to rebel against the King.Jesus showed us this in the story of the people, who sent word to the king saying, we will not have this man rule over us, the response was death. (Luke 19:11-27)To yield to and submit brings life. With the life within comes the ability to unlock the kingdom within.

When we are born again we are acting on the measure of faith God has given to every person. Then we begin to live on the faith of the son of God. (Gal. 2:20) As we feed on God’s Word, faith comes and faith pleases God. All things are possible to them that believe!

As we feast on God’s Word, we build life and power within us. (Hebrews 4:12-13) This along with faith will activate the ability of God within to operate in us and in our lives.

Ephesians 3:20 states that God is able to do exceedingly, abundantly, above all we ask or think. No one would argue with that, but it goes on to say this ability of God is determined by the power that worketh in us.

Phil 2:13 states that it is God working in us both to will and to do of His good pleasure. God works only by faith and His word. The children of Israel limited God’s ability to do all He wanted to do by their unbelief and acts of rebellion. If we follow the same course, so will we.

We have been given the keys to the kingdom within us. We can lock it up or we can unlock it so all the goodness of God can flow freely in our lives. “He that spared not His own son but delivered Him up for us all, how shall he not with Him also freely give us all things.” (Romans 8:32)

By unlocking the kingdom within there is a restoring of the kingdom of God In His people.

This week's inspiration

This week's inspiration from scripture verses John 15:26-27; 16:4-15: Sunday was Pentecost Sunday. Happy Birthday to us! It was a birthday party – they were all living candles with flames dancing over their heads and there were presents in gifts of the Holy Spirit. The Holy Spirit generated inspiration and information and is very active in guiding us all to the truth. When we don’t quench the Holy Spirit, we can write some pretty amazing stories. Without the Holy Spirit, we’re just pushing information. The work of the Spirit is to point to Jesus. Pentecost Sunday is a reminder that if we want to know the truth, we have to let the Spirit embody us.

SAFETY PRECAUTIONS NEEDED TO KEEP KENTUCKY’S ATV FATALITY TOTALS DOWN IN 2012

Louisville, KY (June 5, 2012) – All-Terrain Vehicles (ATVs) can be heard revving their engines over the Kentucky landscape more frequently as summer-time settles into the region – and that means riders need to take a fresh look at safety before operating their vehicles.

“Whether we use ATVs to get work done around the farm or to simply enjoy some trail riding,” said Randy Chrisman, Chair of Kentucky Farm Bureau’s Safety & Rural Health Advisory Committee, “we have to remember that they are also powerful machines that can cause serious injuries when not used properly.”

According to statistics from ATVSafety.gov, a service of the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC), Kentucky currently ranks as the second-highest state in the nation for annual ATV fatalities. During the CPSC’s most recent reporting period, 2007-2010, Kentucky had 122 ATV-related deaths. Only West Virginia (148) reported more ATV-related fatalities during this timeframe.

In 2010, the CPSC data went on to show, ATV accidents across the country were responsible for 317 fatalities and an estimated 115,000 injuries – and more than 28,000 of those injuries involving children under the age of 16.

“It is essential that we teach our children the proper ways to handle equipment and drive vehicles like an ATV,” said Chrisman. “Statistics tell us that their very lives could depend on that knowledge.”

Awareness, attention to age-appropriate use, and education are essential to decreasing the number of injuries and fatalities linked to ATV accidents. Kentucky Farm Bureau offers the following tips to help make ATV riding safer this summer:

- Get training. Before heading for the trail to off-road adventure, riders should go through a driver education course specifically designed for ATVs. Proper instruction will inform riders of the correct ways to control an ATV on the various types of terrain that might be encountered. A formally trained driver has a lower risk of accidents and injuries than one with no formal instruction.
- Get a helmet. Protective equipment, especially a helmet, is essential to reducing the likelihood of an ATV accident leading to head injury. It is also advisable to wear goggles, gloves, pants, boots that sit over the ankle, and long-sleeved shirts to avoid the cuts and scrapes that are more likely to occur if brushing up against trees, shrubs, rocks and other debris with exposed skin.
- Get the right size ATV. Children under the age of 16 should never drive an adult-sized ATV. Nearly one-third of all ATV-related deaths and emergency room visits involve children under the age of 16 who were driving or riding on an adult-sized ATV. The National Ag Safety Database offers information – and additional safety tips – on the recommended ages for youth operation of ATVs and their various sizes and power.
- Don’t ride with a passenger. Most ATVs are designed with only one rider in mind – the driver. Adding a passenger to the vehicle is not only a distraction, but it also interferes with the driver’s ability to move in tandem with the machine while navigating rough terrain. The inability to freely shift one’s weight from side to side limits the driver’s ability to maintain safe control of the ATV and could lead to an accident.
- Don’t ride on the road. ATVs are specifically designed for off-road use and are actually difficult to control on paved surfaces. Additionally, driving on roads exposes ATV riders to the deadly risk of collisions with cars and trucks. Many ATV fatalities occur because a rider was traveling on a paved road.
- Don’t drive under the influence. Recreational use of ATVs can make for an enjoyable afternoon of adventure, but mixing those experiences with alcohol or drugs only impairs a driver’s judgment and reaction times.

Know the state laws. Each state’s restrictions on ATV use vary slightly. Kentucky’s riders should be licensed and familiar with the state restrictions on operation of ATVs.

Situational awareness, formal training and adherence to general safety tips can go a long way in keeping Kentucky’s ATV riders safe, and fatalities down, in 2012.

“We encourage everyone to take safety seriously when riding an ATV,” concluded Chrisman. “No one looks for an accident when heading to that next off-road adventure, but we want to encourage riders to get in the habit of finding more ways to avoid them.”

Extension Office Seeking Recruits for Master Clothing Program

By Sara Bogle
CARLISLE COUNTY EXTENSION AGENT FOR FAMILY & CONSUMER SCIENCES

Thanks to shows like “Project Runway,” and “Fashion Star,” sewing is enjoying newfound popularity. If you have a basic knowledge of garment construction, want to perfect your craft and help others learn to sew, you may find the Master Volunteer in Clothing Construction Program enjoyable and fulfilling. Recruitment for the next class of Master Clothing Volunteers is ongoing through the end of June.

The University of Kentucky Cooperative Extension Service Master Clothing Volunteer program began nearly 22 years ago when many Kentucky schools began to remove classes in sewing and garment construction from their curriculum. Extension saw it as a way to keep sewing alive in the communities.

Recruits for the Master Volunteers in Clothing Construction Program should have a basic knowledge of sewing and garment construction. A master volunteer is an individual who takes the traditional volunteer role a step further. They are interested in receiving in-depth training and are dedicated to helping others learn their art.

The program is highly selective with only two individuals selected from each of the state’s 14 extension areas. Interested individuals should apply to the program through their county’s extension office. A county committee will screen applicants and will notify them about whether their application advanced to the area screening. An area committee will then make the final selections based on an interview and the individual’s sewing and communication skills. Applicants will need to bring two garments they have constructed to the area interview – one from woven fabric and one from knit fabric.

Those selected to participate must attend a statewide training Oct. 9-13 at the Lake Cumberland 4-H Educational Center in Jabez to begin the certification process. During this process, candidates will receive training on the subject matter, record keeping, teaching and communication skills. Master Clothing Volunteers will also make a written commitment to give back 100 service hours to Extension and the community within two years by leading educational programs in clothing construction and basic sewing. Once volunteer requirements are met, you will become a Certified Master Volunteer recognized by the Kentucky Cooperative Extension Service and known as a trained professional aide in this area.

If you’re interested in becoming a Master Volunteer in Clothing Construction, you can get more information and an application at the Carlisle County Cooperative Extension Service, 270-628-5458. Applications are due June 12. Area interviews will be conducted at the Graves County Extension Office on June 25. Those accepted into the program will be expected to pay $100 which goes towards the registration fee for the statewide training.

Educational programs of the Cooperative Extension Service serve all people regardless of race, color, sex, religion, disability or national origin.

Give a Hand to Save Others from Sudden Cardiac Arrest

[LOUISVILLE, KY] – During National CPR Week, June 1 – 7, 2012, The American Heart Association is urging people to learn a simple technique that can save lives. Hands-Only CPR is cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) without mouth-to-mouth rescue breaths. It involves two easy steps: Call 911 and push hard and fast on the center of the chest. Don't stop until help or an AED arrives.

Sudden cardiac arrest claims hundreds of thousands of lives each year. One of the main reasons is because very often help is not given immediately. Sadly, 89 percent of people who suffer an out-of-hospital cardiac arrest die because they don't receive immediate CPR from someone on the scene.

Bystanders must take action when they see someone suddenly collapse and stop breathing normally. When effective bystander CPR is given immediately after sudden cardiac arrest, it can double or triple a victim's chance of survival. Hands-Only CPR can help save lives.

Hands-Only CPR involves two simple steps: 1. Call 9-1-1 and 2. Push hard and fast on the center of the chest until professional help arrives. The American Heart Association has endorsed Hands-Only CPR as a treatment for adult cardiac arrest victims since 2008, and studies have shown it is as effective as CPR with breaths. In addition, people who watch a brief Hands-Only CPR training video are significantly more likely to attempt CPR, according to a recent study published in the association's scientific journal circulation.

Anyone can learn Hands-Only CPR by watching the 60-second instructional video at www.handsonly-cpr.org. You can also find a CPR class near you. For more information visit: www.heart.org/cpr.

NOTE: The American Heart Association still recommends CPR with compressions and breaths for infants and children and victims of drowning, drug overdose, or people who collapse due to breathing problems.

Carlisle Middle Principal Selected for Executive Leadership Training

FRANKFORT, Ky. (May 11, 2012) – Fifty-six Kentucky school principals will receive executive-level leadership training as participants in an institute being created and funded by the state's business community through the Kentucky Chamber Foundation.

The principals were chosen as the class of 2013 (two groups of 28 each) of the Leadership Institute for School Principals that will begin this summer at the nationally recognized Center for Creative Leadership in Greensboro, N.C. It will continue with two follow-up sessions in the fall and early next year at the Kentucky Chamber's headquarters in Frankfort. CCL is a top-ranked global provider of executive education founded in 1970 that established an education and non-profit section in 1988. Many Kentucky corporations use CCL to provide training for their executives. DeeAnne Arant, Principal of the Carlisle County Middle School will be representing Carlisle County.

Elementary, middle and high school principals from across Kentucky representing both public and private schools applied for the institute; participants were selected by an advisory board made up of business leaders and school superintendents. The institute is being supported by generous donations from businesses across the state.

"We are excited about being able to offer this opportunity to educators in Kentucky," said Dave Adkisson, secretary of the Chamber Foundation and president and CEO of the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce. "Employers understand the positive impact of strong leadership in the workplace, and the same is true of schools. That's why we think it is important Kentucky principals be given executive-level training similar to that provided for corporate leaders."

The participating principals will attend at no cost to themselves. Tuition and hotel costs will be paid by the Kentucky Chamber Foundation, and each participant will receive a stipend to cover travel and meals.

Mandatory Motor Vehicle Insurance Notices to Begin Statewide in June

FRANKFORT, Ky. (May 17, 2012) – As mandated by the Kentucky Legislature, uninsured motorists across the Commonwealth will begin receiving notices in June that registrations for their personal vehicles will be canceled if they do not obtain required insurance or show proof of existing insurance.

Registered owners of personal vehicles shown to have been without insurance for more than 60 days will receive the notices. The owners will have 30 days in which to obtain or present verification of coverage.

“It is against the law in Kentucky to operate a motor vehicle without insurance,” said Commissioner Sharon P. Clark, of the Kentucky Department of Insurance. “Vehicle owners who abide by the law are too often victimized in crashes involving uninsured drivers. The Legislature recognized that this was unfair and mandated this new enforcement initiative.”

The mandatory insurance initiative is aimed at plugging an enforcement gap that enables drivers to skirt the law by dropping coverage once their vehicles have been registered. It will be administered by the Department of Vehicle Regulation, of the Kentucky Transportation Cabinet.

Though simple in concept, the mandatory insurance initiative required extensive technology and testing. Working together, the Department of Insurance, of the Public Protection Cabinet, and the Department of Vehicle Regulation, of the Kentucky Transportation Cabinet, conducted a pilot enforcement program that grew to include eight Kentucky counties – Anderson, Ballard, Boyd, Bullitt, Christian, Laurel, Pike and Pulaski.

Each month, insurance companies licensed to do business in Kentucky submit to the Department of Vehicle Regulation the vehicle identification numbers (VIN) of the vehicles their policies insure. A database compares the VINs with those of vehicles registered to Kentucky owners.

Vehicles for which there is no corresponding personal insurance policy are identified, and owners are notified that if they do not obtain insurance or provide proof of insurance within 30 days, their Kentucky registration will be canceled without further notice.

Based on results of the eight-county pilot program, the two Departments estimate that 30,000 to 35,000 uninsured notices will be issued each month. Each notice will identify the vehicle in question by make, model, license plate number and VIN. A notice will be issued only once per individual case.

If a notice has been generated in apparent error – such as in cases of a mismatched VIN or a commercial vehicle erroneously listed as a personal vehicle – the notice instructs the owner to contact the county clerk or the Division of Motor Vehicle Licensing to get the matter resolved. However, owners who fail to take necessary action will be subject to citation for driving without valid registration.

“It is vitally important that vehicle owners who receive an uninsured notice follow the instructions on the notice and contact their county clerk or the Division of Motor Vehicle Licensing,” said Tom Zawacki, Commissioner of the Department of Vehicle Regulation. “They may also have to contact their insurance company, but that should not be the first step. They must take action. The notice cannot be ignored.”

The Transportation Cabinet has a wealth of information about the Mandatory Insurance initiative on its website: <http://transportation.ky.gov/Mandatory-Insurance/Pages/default.aspx>.
